FIGURES THAT ARE SURPRISING

aestion of Contract with Public Control as Against the City Doing the Work Itself for All Householders.

(Tenth article of series.)

The city of Washington, D. C., boasts that it produces more and "sweller swill" than any other city of equal mist any where. Its record is .146 of a ton per capita. Being a city largely of hotels and apartment houses, this may be ac-

And Washington has all its garbage delivered to one contractor, insisting that it thus gets the best and cheapest service for the money. It pays for all collection and reduction $68,000 a year for its population of about 350,000, whereas Chicago for instance, pays out of the city treasury $376,000 to more than 700 team owners, while 100 private contractors are said to collect probably $1,000,000 from private in-pleased with its system. There the public garbage haulers only take their waste' from private houses and apartments of less than four flats. And very naturally Chicago is agitating the matter of placing the whole garbage situation under municipal control.

Back to Washington: The contractor collects garbage daily at hotels, restaurants, markets and other designated places and daily for five months in the year from other buildings and for the rest of the year two and three times a week.

Not Wholly Satisfactory. In spite of some excellent features Washington's contract system, as a whole it is not pueasing to the officers of the corps of engineers, United States of America, in charge of it, as will appear from observations in the last annual report of Lieutenant Colonel Judson, engineer commissioner of the district:

Estimates Made for Washington. If Omaha is to consider the building of municipal reducing plant or incinerator, it will be of interest to note some of the estimates, and observations made by men money into such a plant, for it will legal rights.

make a good, permanent investment. Washington produces 50,000 tons of garbage a year and it is figured that the cost of the plant for the reduction of this volume would be about $325,000, that rightened at the wrist by a turn-over equipment. This is not considered large. gray silk cuff draped in two folds and kept at the inside part under an embedded broidered motif, piped by a broad gray broidered motif, piped by a broad gray ing the garbage under the proposed mustrap crosses the shoulder to catch a year and the cost of disposal about $110,-

Then an annual income from the plant is reckoned at about $300,000, say $150,000 from grease and fats and the remainder Miss Henrietta Rees was hostess at an from fertilizer. So that it is believed a pense to the city from $68,000, as at prescity would be getting far better service than it now gets for double that amount.

But some cities that have been winking at all sorts of delinquencies on the part of their privately-paid garbage collectors might regard the present system in Washington as very rigid and air-tight, if not altogether satisfactory. For example, it imposes a fine of $2 every time the contractor falls to collect garbage according to the rules and in addition to this the commission is empowered under the contract to confiscate and operate the system whenever the private contractor falls to run it as specified. Garbage is collected and hauled in tightly covered iron boxes, which when filled, are transported to the transfer Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sunderland will station and lifted bodily by machinery onto the railroad cars, which whisk the garbage at least thirty-two miles beyond the city's confines.

It will be remembered that The Bee, bers of the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity in the course of these articles, suggested just such a detail as this in a possible change of Omaha's system.

Cuts that print---

There is often all the difference in the world between a cut that shows up well in the engraver's proof and one that shows up well when it is printed. Cuts made for a newspaper have to be made so that they will give good results under the most adverse conditions. For that reason, a newspaper engraving plant produces cuts that the ordinary printer can use and get good results.

If you have some engraving to be done, send us the work and compare both the results and the prices with that of ordinary engraving plants.
